

What's The Sense!

Exenso the looks of our parlor won't you, but—then comes a little white fib, and you feel worse than if you had kept still altogether. Now what's the use? Don't spoil the pleasure of your turkey dinner, by the embarrassment of a rusty piece of furniture when the cost of replacing it would be so slight.

Pretty Parlor Pieces

Two whole floors of them—how they'd dress your parlor up. A pretty reception chair near the door as you enter at $3.00 or so; or a corner chair with tapestry seat over near the piano at $4.75; or a handsome Roman seat with loose cushion in the bay window at $8.50; or a comfortable arm chair near the fire place at $4.50.

Get it now—wouldn't your Thanksgiving be just that much happier?

VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY RETURNED.

Ettor, Giovannitti and Caruso Acquitted of Charges.

Jury Thanked for Fairness With Which Trial Was Conducted.

SALEM, Mass., Nov. 26.—Not guilty is the verdict of the jury in the case of Joseph J. Ettor, Arturo Giovannitti and Joseph Caruso, charged with the murder of Anna Lopizzo, who was killed in a Lawrence textile strike last winter.

When the three men had heard the words freeing them they embraced and kissed each other in the pleasure of the verdict.

Giovannitti then sprang to his feet. "Gentlemen of the jury," he said, "my face beaming with joy, in the name of justice, truth and civilization, I thank you."

As he sat down the court interpreter, Alfred Sacco, rose for Caruso and said: "Mr. Caruso desires me to say that he wants to thank you all, and now that he is free he says that he was innocent of the crime."

Ettor, the leader of the strike at Lawrence and the chief center of interest that has aroused world-wide attention, addressed the jury: "May I please the court," he said, "I thank you not only for myself, but in the name of my companions, I also feel impelled to thank the court for the fair manner in which this trial has been conducted. The thanks we offer is not only ours, but thanks in the name of the working class."

The jury entered the court room at 8:20 o'clock. Immediately thereafter the prisoners, each wearing a red cap, were brought to the cage in the center of the room. All were smiling.

Caruso was not half crowded. Judge Quinn ascended the bench at 8:45 and asked if the jury had agreed upon a verdict. "We have," said Robert S. Stillman, as he handed it to the court.

"Joseph Caruso, stand," commanded Clerk George. As Caruso obeyed the clerk called: "Caruso face the jury; Jurymen look at the prisoner. Gentlemen of the jury is Joseph Caruso guilty or not guilty?"

"Not guilty," was the unanimous reply.

Ettor and Giovannitti were likewise commanded to rise and again the jurors chorused a verdict of "not guilty" for each defendant.

The jury which for more than six weeks had listened to the evidence in the now historic trial, was then released from the court room, with the thanks of the court. The jurors had been in the building and were cheered by the crowd of mill workers in the streets.

When the jurors had left the court announced to Caruso that there was another indictment against him charging him with assault with a dangerous weapon.

The court would release him on his own recognizance. When the happy prisoner had taken oath to appear in court when summoned, he was released from the rail behind the prisoners' cage. He fell into his arms and dozens of his main companions rushed forward and kissed him.

Ettor and Giovannitti were also held on an indictment charged with, together with William D. Haywood, of the Industrial Workers of the World and others, with conspiracy to assault and murder.

On this they were released. Bonds of $500 each which were furnished by Helen Dudley of Boston.

The Lawrence strike leaders were freed from the cage and escorted by a crowd of men and women in the court room. For several minutes they were the recipients of kisses from the women. The defendants and their attorneys held a jubilation meeting in the court room when Caruso was adjourned and a few minutes later, followed by a cheering throng of mill workers, they marched through the streets from the court house to the local office of the Industrial Workers of the World, where they remained for some time in jubilation.

"I have no immediate plans," said Ettor to the representative of the Associated Press, "but I am going as soon as possible to my home in Tacoma, Wash., where I have a paralyzed father. He has been paralyzed since my arrest."

"I am not going to my home in Brooklyn for a day or two," said Giovannitti. "I have so far only met the police and detectives of Massachusetts, and now I hope to get acquainted with the gentlemen of the local office of the Industrial Workers of the World, where they remained for some time in jubilation."

Both prisoners were very happy. They declared they did not have words to express the joy. Caruso and his wife, who had been sitting near him outside the cage for many weeks, danced about like children and rushed away with the crowd to the Industrial Workers headquarters.

They expect to return to their home in Lawrence at once.

The liberated leaders and their friends, after leaving the Industrial Workers office, went to Salvation Army Hall in Church street, where they made the echoes ring with Italian songs and speeches. Ettor and Giovannitti spoke in their native tongue to an even Caruso, who never had made a speech in his life, forced to, say a few words. At this meeting it was planned that all should go to Lawrence later in the day, where a big demonstration was to be held.

JOHN T. BRUSH DEAD.

Head of National League Team Expires on His Private Car.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 26.—John T. Brush, millionaire president of the New York National League baseball team, died of locomotor ataxia on his private car Oceanic, just as a Chicago, Burlington & Quincy train to which his car was attached was pulling into Suburgo, Mo., 46 miles north of here, at 11:15 o'clock this morning. He had been in ill health for several years.

Mr. Brush started from New York Sunday and arrived here last night at 10:15 o'clock. At 11:22, his private car having been transferred from the Big Four to the Burlington, he resumed his trip westward, with San Francisco in view. The flying trip across the country was begun in desperate efforts "to better the base ball bugaboo's health."

Although railroad officials were notified of Mr. Brush's death his car was pulled to Louisville, Mo., before being taken to the funeral home. After an interval it was attached to an inbound Burlington train, due in St. Louis at 6:59 a. m.

The body of Mr. Brush will be forwarded to Chicago at noon today and may be transported to New York, but definite arrangements await the plans of Mr. Brush's daughter, who resides in Indianapolis.

HIS DEATH NOT UNEXPECTED.

Brush a Sufferer from Locomotor Ataxia for Years.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The news of John T. Brush's death in Missouri early today was not unexpected by his family and friends here. The wealthy owner of the New York National team has been at death's door for some time and the long trip to sunny California was decided upon a few days ago as a last resort. Sunday night Mr. Brush was carried from his hotel and placed in his private car in a semi-conscious condition. He was accompanied west by several physicians.

Mr. Brush has been a sufferer from locomotor ataxia for many years. In 1910 he was "critically ill," but after spending the winter in Texas he came back to New York much improved and took up his business life again. His health continued to improve until September 11, when he met with an automobile accident in which he sustained a broken hip. Fracture of the hip in the case of a man of Brush's age—he was 62—was regarded by physicians as very serious. Although the broken bones mended gradually, under the care of "skilled specialists," Mr. Brush from that time was practically helpless and did not leave his bed except to be taken on a stretcher to his automobile for several rides in Central Park.

Realizing the serious nature of his illness, Mr. Brush recently ordered a "recreation" of the New York club's business affairs. He said he "gave up hope of recovery at that time and decided to put the club in the hands of H. M. Hempstead, his son-in-law, assigning the duties of secretary and treasurer to R. H. McGuire in place of Joseph D. O'Brien and John Whalen.

In the event of Mr. Brush's death it was said that Mr. Hempstead would become the principal owner.

John T. Brush was one of the most prominent men in base ball long before he established himself in this city. His first leap into the limelight was made in 1886, when he obtained a national league franchise for Indianapolis. In 1890 his franchise was transferred to Cincinnati and in 1892 he sold his holdings there and purchased the New York club.

FUNERAL IN INDIANAPOLIS.

Services for Brush to be Held Either Thursday or Friday.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 26.—The funeral of John T. Brush will be held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harry Newton Hempstead, in this city, Thursday or Friday. The body is expected to arrive late today and will be taken at once to the daughter's home. It was decided not to hold the funeral until Mr. Brush's friends from distant parts of the country could arrive. Burial probably will be here also. Mrs. Brush and her daughter, Natalie, who lived on the farm here from Bryn Mawr, Pa., where the daughter is attending school.

NO EXPLANATION GIVEN.

Horace Fogel Resigns at Head of Philadelphia National League.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Horace Fogel, president of the Philadelphia National League Base Ball club, tendered his resignation to the National League magnates in session here today. He took this action suddenly and without explanation, before the assembled magnates had had time to consider the charges against him of having made statements reflecting on the integrity of National League umpires.

MURPHY INSTIGATOR OF STORY.

Forman Says Fogel Wrote It to Help Chicago National President.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Under the caption "The story of the story Fogel wrote," W. S. Forman, sporting editor of the Chicago Evening Post, in a sensational statement today, charged Charles W. Murphy, president of the Chicago National club, with being the instigator of the story which resulted in charges preferred against Fogel. Mr. Forman is in New York, prepared to testify before the league magnates.

"The Fogel story," attacking President Lynch and his umpire system recently appeared in the Post. Regarding it, Mr. Forman says: "Charles W. Murphy authorized me to tell the story. He suggested that I should write the story. On this representation, Fogel wrote it and signed it. He sent it to Murphy, who read it before ever saw it. It came to me from Murphy's office and if Murphy had not approved that story it never would have been published. The man who is morally responsible for that article is himself, and I have Fogel's own word for it that he wrote it simply to help Murphy fight his battles in the National League."

JURY FAILS TO AGREE ON VERDICT.

Gibson Interrupts Court, Pleading for Decision.

Men Discharged, Being Warned Not to Discuss Their Deliberations.

GOSHEN, N. Y., Nov. 26.—After deliberating more than 44 hours, the jury in the case of Burton W. Gibson, charged with the murder of his client, Mrs. Rosa Neuschil Skabo, reported to Justice Tompkins shortly after 11 o'clock today they could not agree on a verdict. They were accordingly discharged.

Justice J. Singer, Gibson's counsel, announced shortly after the jury had been discharged that the district attorney had offered not to place Gibson on trial again on the charge of murdering Mrs. Skabo, provided Gibson would plead guilty to one of the several charges against him in New York county. These involve his handling of finances.

"Have you reached a verdict?" asked Justice Tompkins when the jury came in at 11:25 o'clock.

"We have not," replied Foreman Hicks.

"Is there any prospect of your being able to agree?"

"We think not."

"Then," began the court, "I hereby discharge you."

Pale and haggard, Gibson rose from his chair and interrupted the court. "Your honor," he said in a low tone, "I ask the privilege of making a statement."

"This is not the time or the place for that."

"Gentlemen," turning again to the jury, "Gentlemen, I discharge you."

"Oh, your honor," broke in the prisoner, with outbursting voice, "One word, just one word, now, I have a statement to make. I want to ask you to request this jury to go back and try me."

"Stop," commanded the court, raising his hand.

"Once more to reach a verdict," the prisoner concluded, unmindful of the court's command.

"Gentlemen," said the court, ignoring the interruption, "I am sure you have tried honestly to reach a verdict. I thank you and hereby discharge you."

The court cautioned the discharged jury to say nothing about their deliberations. "In view of the fact that this case will have to be tried again in Orange county."

It was reported in the courtroom that the jury had stood eleven to one for acquittal on the final ballot. Another report was that the jury had stood seven to five for conviction.

The difficulty the jurors encountered in making up their minds was disclosed early this morning when they filed into the courtroom and told Justice Tompkins that they could not agree.

"You will retire, gentlemen," directed the court, "and make another attempt to find a verdict."

Gibson alighted down in his suit and vest. Foreman Hicks announced a disagreement. Mrs. Gibson hurried her face in her hands and wept long after the jury room door had closed again on the jury.

During their stay in the courtroom one juror desired to know if they were to be tried again. Justice Tompkins said that if they were convicted to death in order to return a verdict of conviction. He was told a year. Another requested the Skabo will. It was given him. A third wished the letters which the alleged victim had sent to her home in Austria, and these, too, went back into the little room behind the locked and bolted doors.

Mr. Elder, Gibson's lawyer, was granted permission to make a motion. "I request the court to charge the jury," he said, "that they must find from all the evidence beyond a reasonable doubt that this defendant arranged Mrs. Skabo to death before they can convict him of any crime."

"I have already so charged the jury," Justice Tompkins said.

At 9:40 o'clock that day he had been unable to reach a verdict. The foreman, Jacob L. Hicks, added, however, that the prospects were good for reaching a verdict and the court sent them back to deliberate for the second time. "If you agree that you cannot agree," directed Justice Tompkins, after instructing the jury to retire again, "let the court know."

GUN MEN RECEIVE SENTENCE.

Must Die in Electric Chair During Week of January 5.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Gyp the Blood, "Water Lewis," "Lefty Louie" and "Dago Frank," the gun men convicted of the murder of Herman Rothenthal, were sentenced by Justice Goff today to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing during the week of January 5. Each of the prisoners were sentenced separately and in each case Charles G. F. Wahl, their counsel, moved that the verdict be set aside and the judgment be arrested. Each motion Justice Goff successfully denied. One of the grounds for Mr. Wahl's motion was that the jury had actually deliberated less than half an hour and the verdict was the result of "passion, prejudice and other influences."

"Whitely" Lewis was the first to hear his doom pronounced and was quickly led from the room by four deputy sheriffs. "Dago Frank" was next sentenced, then "Lefty Louie," and finally the dark-skinned "Gyp."

None of the condemned men gave any visible outward sign of his feelings. All looked stolidly ahead and each shook the hand of Mr. Wahl as he was led away. Accompanied by Sheriff Hamberger and 12 deputies, the four were forced through a big, silent crowd.

NEWPORT'S RANKING MEMBER.

Fletcher W. Lawton to Preside Over Organization Ceremonies of House of Representatives.

[Providence Journal.]

To Fletcher W. Lawton, representative from the First district of Newport, will fall the honor of calling the organization ceremonies of the House of Representatives at the opening of the next General Assembly, January 7, 1913. Mr. Lawton is conceded to be the ranking member from Newport and in accord with the constitutional provision he will assume the duties performed by Horace N. Hassard for the past seven years. Mr. Hassard was not a candidate for reelection.

There has been considerable speculation since the count of the Newport ballots by the State Returning Board as to who would prevail over the organization ceremonies of the house. Especially is this true because of the fact that there are two members from Newport who have served two years. The other member is John B. Sullivan, the Democratic member from the Fifth district. This being true, other qualifications have been considered as to what constitutes the ranking member and the circumstances seem to indicate that Mr. Lawton has the preference.

The senior member within the meaning of the constitution has always been considered to mean senior in point of service, but this being equal other circumstances have been taken into consideration. If seniority in age is to be considered, then Mr. Lawton has the advantage over Mr. Sullivan by six years. If the district which they represent are to be considered numerically, then Mr. Lawton comes first by reason of the fact that he is elected from the First district, while Mr. Sullivan comes from the Fifth district, which is the last in the city. It has been pointed out that in case of a tie in the length of service, the position of the respective members on the roll of the house would possibly be a factor. Again Mr. Lawton gets the preference over Mr. Sullivan.

Mr. Lawton has been a member of the Representative Council of Newport since 1900 and a member of the Republican committee since 1902. He is a member of the house committee on charities and corrections, also of the joint standing committee on public health.

The retirement of Mr. Hassard leaves a vacancy in the chairmanship of the house committee on corporations. Representative Albert H. Langworthy of Westerly is the next ranking member on that committee and if the established precedent is followed he will, in all probability, become the head of the committee.

"MELINDY."

Story of Southern Life, in Which a Small Girl Plays an Important Part.

A pretty little story of Southern life is told by Stella George Stern "Melinda." A pleasant picture is given of "Old New Orleans" with its mansion houses and riotous flower gardens. The book is full of local color and the Southern atmosphere. Among other charms those of the Southern moon are chanted to the disengagement of the Northern orb, who can blame the author for this partiality when one learns that "the Northern moon is the soul of the night." The moon in the North sends beams of "luscious" crystal, but the moon of the South unfurls glowing sheets of true transparent gold. The Northern moon inspires the poet to dream of lovers, but the moon of the South is the lamp of love. The Northern reader surrenders in favor of this radiant Southern moon, when he sees, through the eyes of the author, a garden flooded with its mysterious beauty. "It glimmered among the twinkling leaves of the camphor trees and shimmered on the sword-blades of the palms. It cast the illumination on the heavy moss of the live-oak, changing its gray age to shining youth; it made true lanterns of light of the great magnolia blossoms and charmed the lily-pond to be a mirror of its loveliness."

The book will be read with pleasure by young and old. It is a child's story; it is a grown-up's story. So skillfully are the two combined that it will delight every age. It is full of delicious humor, with just a touch of the tragic, which but increases its charm.

Melinda is the heroine. All the incidents centre about this little mite of colored humanity. She enlightens out-trodden love affairs, brings happiness to the unhappy and has a finger in everything which goes on about her. She introduces herself thus: "Everybody lobs Melinda, cause I'm so pleasant." One must admit that she never deceives herself. She is continually ejaculating "I'm so smart!" or "Ain't I been cunning?" or more often "Ain't I been sly?" and "Don't I sing along mighty sweet and pretty?" She loves, prides and shows that she does. Her "white folks" are sometimes anxious over this trait of character, but her love and loyalty to them is ample atonement. Melinda has the best of all as the first words and her final remark gives the key to her nature: "Well, all I wants to do is to be sweet and pleasant and help 'em make folks happy."

A WATCH OF RARE BEAUTY.

(New York Tribune.)

The horse show in Madison Square Garden each year has become an international event, attracting attention in many parts of the world. A unique influence of this annual display of blue blood and blue ribbons became known upon the arrival in this country last week of Mr. Oscar Bressard of Lucerne, who brought with him a watch of the world's most famous horses. The creation of which was inspired by his former visits to our horse show.

The princely timepiece is believed to be the finest of its kind in the world. It is a masterpiece of art, and its value is estimated at $100,000. It is a watch of the world's most famous horses, and its value is estimated at $100,000. It is a watch of the world's most famous horses, and its value is estimated at $100,000.

PERSONALS.

Dr. W. H. Heston of Batavia, Dutchess county, is to be appointed adviser to the Chinese government for the reform of the currency. G. Vissering, who was originally proposed for the post, will be appointed honorary adviser. Mr. Vissering is going to Amsterdam as president of the Netherlands Bank.

Reports are current in Bonaparte circles in Paris that Prince Victor Napoleon, cousin of King Victor Emmanuel, will be named as governor of the future state of Albania. It is said that, with the support of Austria, Italy has obtained the prince's candidacy, and King Ferdinand of Bulgaria approves it. These reports, however, lack confirmation.

John Schrank, who shot Colonel Roosevelt, has been taken to the Northern Hospital for the Insane, near Oakesh, Wis. Dr. J. J. Backus, having a commission of attorneys, adjudge that Schrank has not changed his insane condition since sentence was pronounced. His disease, pronounced paranoic, and probably incurable, may result in his spending the rest of his life in the asylum. However, should he ever be pronounced cured, he will be returned to Milwaukee and tried for the attempt on Roosevelt's life.

SONG.

(Charles H. Mackintosh, "In Woman's World.")

All artless, effortless, they seem to throng
Out from the singer's ivory throat,
Singing sweet, golden, beautiful,
Softly, tenderly, yet so sweetly strong!
But, ah, for all the weary nights and
long,
Before the singer won the craft to sing
This golden voice of the fairy land,
Across the turmoil of the sea of song!
The perfect, beautiful, golden voice,
That sings of love and life and joy,
That sings of love and life and joy,
That sings of love and life and joy,
That sings of love and life and joy,
That sings of love and life and joy,
That sings of love and life and joy,<

HOMICIDAL INSANITY.

It is absolutely necessary that men who are possessed of a homicidal mania should be allowed to roam about unhindered until after they have claimed a victim, or is it possible to put such persons under proper restraint before they commit the crime to which they are pre-disposed because of wrong mental conditions?
This question is suggested by the fact that the man who shot former President Roosevelt and intended that the shot should be fatal has been pronounced insane. This is fastening the door after the thief has raided the house, and there should be some way of preventing the deed rather than taking action after it has been committed. Of course it would not do to arrest on suspicion every man who behaves as though he were weak-minded or erratic, for if that were done
the jails and prisons would be full of those whose actions indicate that they are not under perfect mental control. Without resorting to such an extreme as that, it would seem as though some way ought to be devised by which men can be prevented from taking or trying to take the lives of their fellows, while they are not quite crazy.

Altenists seem to have no trouble
in deciding after crimes of this sort are committed that those responsible for them were insane, and the question arises whether they could not learn this before a man has an opportunity to do the harm to which he is incited by a taint of insanity.
This is a serious matter, with which the public, the authorities, and the alienists ought to deal to the extent,
if possible, of finding some way better
to protect the public from the attacks of men whose minds are so unsettled as to make them irresponsible for their acts, even though these be of a homicidal character. Not a day passes probably when in some part of the world men do not commit crimes of this sort and later are pronounced insane. Then it is too late to prevent the deed which has been plotted or committed on the spur of the moment, and all that can be done is to put the prisoner under restraint so that he cannot repeat his act. What is needed is some way to discover insanity with homicidal tendency before the impulse to kill has been obeyed, so that the commission of the crime may be prevented.

CARNEGIE PENSIONS.

Andrew Carnegie has received such unlimited applause for the way he has passed out his millions that it probably never occurred to him that the American nation might resent the idea that he should pension its retired Presidents. His gifts of a building for the Pan-American Bureau in Washington and of a Temple of Peace at The Hague have been cheerfully accepted by sovereign nations abundantly able to provide their own public structures. His libraries have been thankfully received almost everywhere, though in a few places where the labor vote is strong a gift in part from the Homestead Steel Works has been refused. His pensions for college professors have been so eagerly sought by most institutions which have had a chance that some of them have promptly severed their religious connections in order to secure the pecuniary benefits of connection with the Carnegie funds, which are not simply unsectarian but anti-religious.

When it comes to offering pensions to ex-Presidents, the American people are not quite so complacent. The nation has never provided pensions for Presidents, as it has never given them to other civil servants. It has provided for those who risk their lives in its service in the army and navy and for the widows of Presidents, but it has never seemed necessary to pension ex-Presidents.
Nevertheless, there are some reasons
for it, many persons strongly advocate it, and it would not be strange if a pension should soon be provided.
The whole nation recoils with some sense of disgust at the idea that its Presidents on retiring from office should become the pensioner of a private individual, and draw incomes

from a fund obtained through a trust and acquired from a heavily protected industry, especially at a moment when the protected industries are rather commonly identified as among the "interests" against which the people voted decisively this month.
It is quite certain that Tatt and Roosevelt would accept no Carnegie pension, and before Wilson shall need one the country may perhaps vote the money. It will not submit to have its Presidents privately pensioned.

DOES COMBINATION MEAN INEF- FICIENCY?

One of the worst features in connection with the development of monopolies among public service corporations is that while they are building up these aggregations of power
they are neglecting the proper operation of the enterprises in which they are engaged. Recently events indicated clearly that monopoly often is created at the expense of efficiency,
that as power increases and corporations grow there is a loss in the ability to operate successfully the enterprises which have been built up, or a lack of attention to that feature of the business. It is bad enough to have these great aggregations performing public service functions, but still worse to see the big corporations showing inefficiency in the management of enterprises in which the people are vitally interested. There is need, therefore, while attention is drawn to the danger of these combinations of trade and traffic to the public interest, that some thought should also be given to the attendant peril from inefficient management.

It is a common experience that when railroads combine the service which they render becomes more imperfect, that when steamboat companies unite there are more accidents
and less care for the safety of the public, that when any kind of corporations which serve the people pool their resources in operation, this is just the opposite result from that which ought to be expected and leads to the belief that combinations are too unlikely to be worked successfully so weldy to be of interest to the public far as the interests of the public are concerned, or that so much attention is given to the accumulation of power that less is devoted to the matter of increasing or even maintaining efficiency. Whatever the reason, it is the people who suffer and it is not strange that they are aroused to a realization of the conditions, and instead of earnest demands that these combinations be shown of much of their power, so that the public may be better served and its safety more fully secured.

DOCTORS' FEES.

The doctors are a generous profession and do an immense amount of work without charge. It is just enough, therefore, that they should make their rich patients pay for the service done for the poor ones. Yet there are some limitations to this principle. In a suit over a matter of this sort one of the witnesses stated with the utmost frankness that the size of the fee must depend entirely upon the means of the patient. It is putting the matter pretty strongly to assert a right to exact a fortune for which a millionaire for services for which a man of ordinary means would pay a few hundreds, and which a man of no means might receive for nothing, though this would more likely come if the sickness were prolonged, through an endowed hospital than by the direct action of a physician.

The practice of charging a rich man roundly is quite justifiable, but it hardly follows that the medical fee should be assessed like taxes, in proportion to the wealth of the patient, and that a man of twenty millions should pay twenty times as much as the unfortunate who has only a single million.

Perhaps the medical profession would recognize a maximum regardless of the fortune of the patient, but as litigation has occasionally disclosed fees demanded of $30,000 or $50,000, or even $100,000, there is probably no maximum. It is simply a question of how much can be had. Still, the biggest fees charged by doctors do not equal or even approach the highest collected by lawyers, and in litigation the judges, who of course are lawyers, are far more indulgent to the steep charges of their own profession than to those made by doctors and surgeons. Congress has shown much greater liberality in voting money for lawyers' than for doctors' fees, and this is not remotely connected with the fact that most of the men in Congress are lawyers and very few of them are doctors. In both professions it is legitimate to charge all one can, and it seems to be easier to secure great sums for saving a man's property than for saving his life.

The leaders among the Democrats are evidently planning for currency reform as soon as they obtain control of the national government. A bill has already been prepared by Congressman Glass of Virginia, chairman of the legislative sub-committee of the House committee on banking and currency, which meets the approval of the leading men of the party. It proposes to give the country a permanently elastic currency which will protect business after the emergency act expires in May, 1914. It is the Aldrich bill with Aldrich left out; that is, the central reserve association of banks is omitted. Instead, the country is geographically split up into "divisional reserve associations".
Democrats say the Aldrich bill was banking control, but theirs provides government control.

The international situation in Europe has not improved and is not likely to be changed until Austria convincing that Russia is not backing Servia in the latter's insistence upon a port on the Adriatic.

Austria is causing most of the trouble,
but Russia evidently has a hand in the situation, and there are chances that the Turkish war will not be settled without at least a "scrap" between these two great nations, intimately connected with the alban states.

At a time when they need it badly,
the Republicans will gain a seat in the United States Senate by the death of Isador Rayner of Maryland, Governor Goldsborough, who has the appointing power, will, it is expected, designate William P. Jackson, national committee man, to fill the vacancy
until the legislature meets in 1914.
This will reduce to a minimum the stender advantage which the Democrats will have in the Senate after March 4.

The acquittal of Ellor and his associates in the Salem murder trial will be variously interpreted from differing points of view. Whatever may be thought of the legal aspects of the case, the whole affair ought not to be without its salutary effect upon all concerned, not excluding the labor interests.

A Providence councilman proposes to solve the railroad problem in Rhode Island by a state-owned railway and steamship line which will compete with existing routes. Will the remedy be worse in some ways
than the disease?

In the death of Robert Knight Rhode Island loses perhaps her most notable example of the successful and well-known cotton manufacturer. He had filled a large place in the industrial development of the state.

President-elect Wilson should have a care. Acute indigestion, even if not serious, indicates that the Bermuda people are giving him too many good things to eat, or possibly not the right kind.

A war between Austria and Russia would be worse than that between Turkey and the Balkan states. May such a catastrophe be averted!

Andrew Carnegie on his seventy-seventh birthday says the world is well. Why should he not think so?

A FAMOUS TEXAS WOMAN.

[Woman's Home Companion.]
Without indulging in sectionalism,
it is easy to feel considerable satisfaction in the fact that a lady from the great state of Texas has been chosen president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Besides, Mrs. Percy V. Penney has had the benefit of an inter-state education and training. She was born in Peter-burg, Virginia, her maiden name was Anna J. Hardwick, and received her early education in the parsonage of her father, Rev. Dr. John H. Hardwick. As her family subsequently moved first to Leavenworth, Kansas, and then to Huntsville, Texas, she passed through the classical high school in Leavenworth, and afterward was graduated with the highest honors from the Huntsville State normal school, she had been teaching several years when in 1884 she married Percy V. Penney, of Tyler, Texas, who died in 1899, leaving three children to her care.
Mrs. Penney was a high school principal for 10 years, and in the course of her career as a teacher, covering 14 years in all, she made several noteworthy contributions to educational literature, including a history of Texas, which was adopted for use in the public schools of the state.
She established the literary club of Tyler in 1887 and served as president of the American history club of Austin and the Texas state federation of women's clubs and has ably conducted the affairs of some of the most important committees of the national federation over which she now presides.

Sunshine Society Meets Generous Responses for its Thanksgiving

[Regular correspondence of The News.]
The Portsmouth Sunshine Society
held a special meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank L. Tallman, with members present, for the purpose of Thanksgiving, not forgetting the sick,
the lonely and those on whom the burden of life fell heavily. A call had been extended to the teachers of the Newtown school, Mr. Lynch and Miss Morgan, Miss Fish and Miss Brophy of the Chase school to ask their pupils to contribute such articles as each could easily spare for the work in Portsmouth. The result was a large quantity of gifts, suitable for such purpose were awaiting the committee, to be arranged, sorted and taken to their destination in his automobile by Mr. Tallman. The generous responses of the children of the schools, and the public is alive to the aim of the society and ready to support its endeavor. Many unsolicited gifts were received. If any to whom gifts had been solicited in, because they have not been brought to the attention of the members.
Contractor Walter E. Dyer is putting

Mrs. Fish is confined to the house by illness. Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. James H. Fish, is taking charge of the business during her illness.
Colonel William B. Dyer, Chapter
Deputy of the American Revolutionary, held a whist of two tables at the Chapman house Monday afternoon. Miss Harriet Frances Sanford took the prize, a pair of beautiful pink chrysanthemums.
Mrs. Lynch was given a party by her pupils on the occasion of her birthday. It was intended to be a surprise but their plan was learned by Mrs. Lynch and she was prepared to meet them. The special present from her pupils was a large bunch of chrysanthemums and there were several others. The birthday of one of the pupils, Miss Hazel Dale, occurred on the same day. Refreshments were served.

THE WEATHER.

BOSTON, Nov. 26.—Forecast for Boston and vicinity—Probably rain or snow tonight or Wednesday; moderate, westerly winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.
Cloudy weather prevails in northeastern section, and snow has fallen, generally in light amounts in this section. The lowest pressure reported is 29.70 at Sydney, Cape Breton.
A trough of slight depression extends thence westward to the upper Lake region. No marked or extensive changes in temperature are noted as compared with the reading of that of Monday. In New England the minimum was 23 degrees at Greenville, Maine. The slight depression over the Lake region is likely to cause a small amount of rain or snow in this vicinity
during the next 36 hours. The tem-

ELECTRIC LIGHTS FOR JAMESTOWN.

Council Receives Two Propositions and Postpones Its Action.

One from the Bay State Company and One from Parties Whose Names Are Not Disclosed.

Not for years has so much interest been taken in the monthly meeting of the town council as was shown at Monday afternoon's session. This was caused by the presentation of two propositions, with accompanying petitions for the granting of a 25-year electric lighting franchise, and for more than an hour the meeting more closely resembled a public hearing than a session of the board.

The first matter taken up was the petition of the Bay State Company for the lighting franchise. This was accompanied by petitions signed by about 200 residents or members of the summer colony asking for the granting of the franchise. A rough draft of a contract, showing the proposition of the company, was read by Attorney W. P. Sheffield and gone over by Mr. E. P. Gossling, Jr., Newport representative. A communication from the Jamestown Light & Water Company, surrendering its rights to the lighting franchise to the Bay State, was also read.

A contract as drafted asked for a 25-year exclusive franchise for furnishing electricity for lighting, heating and power, the Bay State Company furnishing at $5,000 for the first year, and thereafter at a rate not in excess of 15 per cent for the first five years over the Newport rates on 25 with the Public Utilities Company. For the next five years five per cent for the next five years and the same rate as Newport's during the further continuance of the franchise. The company is to pay to the town one per cent of its gross earnings.

Upon being questioned both Mr. Gossling and Mr. Sheffield said the company would guarantee to furnish street lighting at a price as low as any town similarly situated in Rhode Island or New England. The words "similarly situated" called forth a long discussion, until upon a query of Rev. C. D. Francis, Mr. Gossling stated that this did not mean the location of the town geographically, but in regard to population and distribution of lights.

Attorney Richmond of Providence then presented a petition of Mr. Anderson and associates of that city, for the lighting franchise. He said he had examined the contract of the Jamestown Light & Water Company, and that company held no lighting franchise and never had. He admitted that such a right had been held by the water company, the non-exercise of that right for the term of 22 years voided it. He agreed to furnish electricity for a rate of 12 cents per kilowatt hour, for domestic use, for street lighting, a rate of $14 per year for 22-candle power, 40-watt light, $18 per year for 60-candle power, 50-watt light, and for Tungsten lights of 350 candle power, $60 per year.

Mr. Gossling, speaking for Mr. Anderson, refused to give the names of the men associated with Mr. Anderson, but said he welcomed an investigation by a committee. He asked that the matter be referred to allow such an investigation, agreeing to give a bond to reimburse the town should there be a failure to do as contracted.

Dr. A. M. Merdethall, spoke briefly, asking for mature consideration before action by the council.

Dr. L. E. Adams spoke, voicing the sentiment of the entire town when he said he desired electricity.

Mr. H. Horgan addressed the council at length in favor of the terms set out by the Bay State Company, referring to the known good service of that company and its financial standing, which make it a responsible concern, as against the ambiguous references of the opposing petitioners.

Several lively tilts between the attorneys and the parties of Mr. Richmond whenever information was asked evinced the meeting. Questions by Mr. Gossling to Mr. Anderson in regard to the proposed franchise, and their actual knowledge of conditions existing in the town, failed to elicit any definite information. Even a request to send the draft of the contract and petition, alleged to be filed with the town clerk failed to bring forth any such draft or petition in tangible form.

Much time was consumed going over the same ground and in a nearly an hour and a half had been occupied before the petitions were taken up by the council. After a vote receiving the petitions the question of granting the lighting franchise was referred to a special meeting to be held December 3.

The following bills were ordered paid: Ambrose, labor, $5; Jarred Woodman, labor, $12; H. D. Buck, C. assessing, tax, $51; Newport Coal Company, coal, $7.25; Jamestown Improvement Society, $300; A. Richardson, labor, $37.50; Ledyard Anthony, labor, $12.25; Mrs. G. A. Clarke, rent, $1; Lane Bros, repairs, $4.35; Joseph Matos, labor, $3; Samuel Smith, labor, $6; Thomas Latham, salary, $75; Robert L. Harriman, salary, etc., $98; Dr. A. M. Merdethall, services, $2; C. E. Weeden, insurance, $24; H. C. Franklin, assignee, supplies, $1; T. P. Pliman Corporation, advertising, $37; C. J. Wise, labor, $2.25; Charles E. Hill, salary, $70; B. P. Watson, supplies, $11.50; John Robinson, police, $5; H. S. Stubb, salary, $149.71; J. H. Telf, rent, $13; T. C. Watson, assessing, tax, $51; W. H. Saverance, town clerk, $23.26; M. Kelley, W. A. Gardner, R. E. Hull and L. L. Gamache, supervisors, $3 each; H. T. Knowles, mechanic, $5; J. G. Stevens, supplies, $18; Jamestown Light & Water Company, fuel, $50; George B. Wales, salary, $5; Jamestown and Newport Ferry Company, coal, $7.25; J. J. Plummer, repairs, $24.18; A. J. Plummer, repairs, to sewer outlet, $417.65.

John R. Caswell and J. C. Telf were made a committee to purchase fire hose and coats.

A vote was passed, instructing the town police to report to the chief of police upon the ringing of all fire alarms.

The communication of D. W. Hoyt, regard to the road at Conanicut Island, was referred to committee on 12th district No. 4.

John R. Caswell was appointed a committee with the chief of the fire department in regard to the steamer No. 1.

It was authorized to sell the steam engine.

Committee Peckham, Hall and Caswell were appointed a committee to investigate the electric lighting conditions and report at the special meeting to be held December 3.

In order to prohibit the petition for the discharge of Harry E. Nason as guardian of Ruth E. Nason was ordered recorded.

Mrs. Helen McDonald has completed her vacation and resumed her duties at the postoffice.

GAS BUOY RECOVERED.

Adrift, Still Illuminated from Point Judith, But Towed Back by Lighthouse Tender.

Monday evening a warning was sent out by wireless, announcing that the Point Judith gas buoy was adrift, 11 miles south by west from the Breton's Reef life saving station, still illuminated and going east with the tide. Lighted and going east with the tide, the buoy was able to tell the station that it was the gas buoy, with its flashing of a white light every 25 seconds. Later the watch at the station observed a lighted buoy coming from the westward and going east, as if in search of the buoy. During the forenoon the tender was sighted returning, and when she passed the station it could be seen that she was towing the buoy. The buoy will be properly marked again tonight.

LOCAL FRIENDS.

—Mrs. Stuyvesant Lefroy will close her cottage here and go to New York Wednesday.

—Mrs. Simon Wall of Houston, Texas, is guest of her brother, Mr. J. A. Jacobs, on Kay street.

—The first class dance of the year at the Rogers High School will be held next Friday night.

—The teachers of the public schools will receive their third payment for the year Wednesday and the city treasurer is ready for a busy noon time.

—The Hackman's Protective Association is to have a social session on Thanksgiving eve. It will take the form of a Thanksgiving turkey dinner, served in the hall of the Association.

—Tug Tasso and a Scott lighter were out port this morning, after lighting the schooner ashore in the west bay. The schooner seems to have the go-ashore hatch, and again went out after being pulled off the beach.

—Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt left this afternoon in their private car, Wayfarer, bound to Racquet Lake. This will be Mrs. Vanderbilt's first visit to "Racquet Camp." Mr. Vanderbilt's place in the Adirondack is held by Mr. Vanderbilt.

—Some one says there was a slight snow flurry on Long wharf Monday afternoon. There seem to have been several this morning, but on careful investigation, the wind was found responsible; there was no snow, still, it feels and looks far from settled, though the wind has come around to the southwest.

—The petition in favor of the purchase of Monticello as a national memorial has received about as many signatures as the paper will hold, and many more than Mayor Boye thought would be appended when he opened it. It had a good start at that meeting of the Council and since been in the city clerk's office.

—A cement firm in Sigurd, Utah, is looking for a few acres of land between New York and Boston, on which to build an eastern branch of its works. It stipulates that the site must be on a line of railroad and on tide water with an opportunity to secure 25 feet of water at a dock. There are such sites in the vicinity of this city.

—Mr. Tom Young, the veteran shoemaker of Parker street, has improved so much since having a slight attack of paralysis, and breaking his arm in two places, that he has returned from the hospital to his home, and, every comfort, and taking his case, he can use the arm, from the elbow down, as well as his hand.

—The uncertainty of the weather seems to be responsible for the fact that the work of laying the granite walks in front of St. Joseph's Church has not been hurried. The men are ready for the top, waiting, but desire some encouragement from the weather. The iron, rule of the street, they lay, opposite the middle door of the church, has been moved to the eastward, clear of the church.

—There was an especially good attendance at the Danish Brotherhood whist and dance Monday evening. The dancing was as usual the main feature of the evening and there were games played after the orchestra whist went to Mrs. Peckham and Mr. N. Nelson and the congratulations to Miss Carrie and Mr. Lauritz. Jullissen, and orchestra played for the dancing.

—The railroad company is putting in still another set of fish traps, making three new ones in all. This is for fish and on the west platform, just where the fish are trucked into the head-house. It looks like some weighing next spring and summer when the fish are coming. The railroad is providing two scales for fish but the fishermen already have their own and weigh much of the fish before putting it up.

—The third man to have his candidacy announced by cards is Councilman William of H. Horgan, running as an Alderman from the First Ward. The first Alderman candidate to advertise in the newspaper is Councilman Joseph J. Kirby, who is running from the Second and has followed the example shown by so many at the state election, in having his name appear daily so that people will not forget he is running.

—The police report this morning included one man for drunkenness. The court said $2 and costs and at the last report he had not the money.

—A man was caught up for larceny of a bicycle, November 19, the property of Frank Horgan. He was caught with the goods and sold guilty, and the judge said $10 and costs. He also was fined for larceny of a bicycle. The police still have a number of bicycles which had evidently been stolen and have never been claimed.

—"Elmhurst" at the One Mile Corner, will remain open through the holidays, being occupied by Mrs. H. Stanley Bristol, Mrs. Elder's Washington house, "Roseland" will be occupied for the winter by her other daughter, Mrs. Gardner P. Orme, the entire family gathering at "Elmhurst" for Christmas. Mrs. Elder's automobiles have been sent to New York, where she will take rooms until December 22 at the Hotel Netherlands. After January 1 she will go to Mr. Elder's ranch in El Dorado county, California, to remain until June 1.

—The annual Army-Navy football game will be played at Clinton oval, Woonsocket, Thanksgiving day, the teams being from Fort Adams and battleship New Jersey. This has become an annual event in the Blackstone valley and there ought to be a good game there Thursday. Fort Adams has made a good record this year, having been scored on only once by the team of the Kansas. The Training Station played a tie game early in the season, but later Adams smothered the sailors 32 to 0. Other victories were over Greble, 26-0; Fort Strong, 28-0; Fort McKinley, Maine, beaten at home, 14-0.

Fort Adams has made a good record this year, having been scored on only once by the team of the Kansas. The Training Station played a tie game early in the season, but later Adams smothered the sailors 32 to 0. Other victories were over Greble, 26-0; Fort Strong, 28-0; Fort McKinley, Maine, beaten at home, 14-0.

OF UNKNOWN ORIGIN.

The Music Hall Block at Maynard, Mass., Destroyed by Fire.

MAYNARD, Mass., Nov. 26.—Fire of unknown origin early today destroyed the Music Hall block, causing a loss of $15,000. The block was a considerable headway before discovery, but the flames prevented the flames from communicating to nearby buildings. The Gruber owned the building, a two-story wooden structure.

QUESTS OF SENATOR SANBORN.

Two Members of Centennial Committee Inspect Perry Monument and Mansion.

Congressman-elect William W. Shreve of Maine, Pa., and Mackenzie R. Todd of Franklin, Ky., members of the executive committee of the Perry Centennial Memorial, were guests Monday afternoon of ex-Senator John P. Sanborn. They inspected the Perry monument and the Perry mansion and in the evening were entertained by St. Paul's Lodge of Masons, Messrs. Shreve and Todd were guests Monday morning in Providence of Henry Cutler, another member of the Perry Memorial committee.

The question of holding a meeting of the executive committee of the inter-state board in Providence has been taken up and it is likely that the meeting will be held in the near future. It was deemed fitting to hold the meeting in Rhode Island, the native state of the commander.

The committee has called meetings of the inter-state boards to be held in Buffalo, December 11 and 12. At these the committees appointed by city councils in the various lake cities will be represented and the committee will be held for uniform celebration of Perry's memorable battle, in these different cities, covering a period of three months.

Louisville, Ky., is preparing to hold a big celebration in October, 1913, in commemoration of the battle of the Thames.

A COMPLIMENTARY MASQUE-RADE.

A masquerade party was given Monday evening. Vocal and instrumental music was rendered, many of the latest popular songs being sung by Madame Pulsifer and Mr. O'Brien. Miss Herlin, Miss Sullivan and Mr. Heffer. Piano selections were rendered by Mr. Gerard, his versatility making quite a hit with the guests.

After the intermission, during which refreshments were served, the guests retired to the main dining room, where there was a masked ball to the strains of Mr. George Congdon's mandolin orchestra, until midnight. The prize waltz was won by Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson and the prize for the best costume by Mr. O'Brien.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson, Mr. and Mrs. Coudrey, Mr. and Mrs. Hasler, Captain Nichols, Messrs. Crandall, Heffer and Clark, Mrs. Gordon and Miss Thompson. The girls from the Lapham School attended in a body.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Curran are guests of Mrs. Catherine T. Baker in New York.

—Mrs. Louis L. Lorrillard and her son, Mr. Louis L. Lorrillard, sailed for Europe today on the America from New York.

—Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Davis will spend Thanksgiving with Mrs. Davis's mother, Mrs. Wm. H. Groves, in Providence.

—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Behrend of Erie, Pa., are guests of Mrs. Behrend's mother, Mrs. Seth H. Brownell, in Providence, for Thanksgiving.

—Mrs. French Vanderbilt and her son, Master William H. Vanderbilt, sailed for Europe today. They will spend a part of the winter on the Nile.

—Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cass Ledyard and Mrs. Henry James Lehr were passengers on steamship George Washington, which arrived at New York from Europe Monday.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon King closed their residence on Oakwood Terrace Monday and with their daughters, Messrs. Dorothy G. and Violet G. King, went to New York for the winter.

A sale of aprons and fancy articles was held Monday evening in Grand Army hall by Lawton-Warren Women's Relief Corps. A salad supper was served, and later whilst was played, in which a large number participated.

The recognized agents of the Kodak are giving away tickets to the exhibition in Providence this week and a number of local camera enthusiasts are going up to hear the talks, see the demonstrations and learn the latest tricks in photography.

The navy it is announced, will abandon the use of the Meyer code in signaling and radio work for the Morse, which the commercial companies have long used exclusively because of its greater speed. The Navy called attention to the fact that the fact that the navy was impeded in its work by the code which it used.

—There was a suburban runaway on Thames street Monday, a horse from out in the country being the runner. A passing vehicle gave it one of those jolts familiar on Thames street and the horse started what looked like the beginning of a good run. Officer Coggeshall forgot his traffic whistle for the moment and caught the horse. There was no damage.

—It did not rain much Sunday, but enough to cause the flat section to the east of the passenger station on Fourth street to assume its usual water-lane appearance. There are a dozen or so pools which later will be skating ponds. This condition of affairs is bound to continue until such time as this section is properly drained so that the water can run off.

OWES MUCH TO BRYAN.

Wilson Believed to Have Offered Him Place of Secretary of State.

Talk of Possible Split—Appointment Would be Distasteful to Clarke and Underwood.

[Washington correspondence of The News.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—In all probability William J. Bryan will be the next Secretary of State. Of course much may happen between now and the time the actual announcement is made, but it is generally believed that Governor Wilson has decided to offer the place to Mr. Bryan and that Bryan will accept.

Governor Wilson probably feels that he owes much to the Nebraska; that Mr. Bryan's advice and counsel will be beneficial to his administration. And Mr. Bryan feels that he is in duty bound to render all possible assistance to the man he did so much to make President.

There are many persons who think it would be unwise for Mr. Bryan to go into the cabinet; that he is a great orator, but as a private citizen, that he is not a statesman. It is a danger of a disagreement between two such political forces as he and Governor Wilson, making a possible split in the party.

Then there are those who believe that Bryan's election for premier of the cabinet would be unpleasant to two important men, Speaker Champ Clark and Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee. Underwood denounced Bryan in a speech on the floor of the House. It was with great difficulty that Clark's friends restrained him from going before the Baltimore convention and denouncing Bryan. By taking the case of the two most prominent Democrats in the House into his cabinet, Mr. Wilson would lay open a pathway for a rupture.

If we could only get all those who have been President and all who have been candidates for President and all who want to be President to agree upon the single six-year term proposition there ought to be no great trouble in putting it through. Two men have spoken—Taft and Bryan. Bryan would be satisfied with a single term of four years. Taft would be satisfied with a single term of six years and by force of circumstances is compelled to be satisfied with a single term of four years.

Now, if Roosevelt would give his endorsement to the single term idea, believe there would be no trouble in making it practically unanimous. The other candidates could be rounded up. Of course there is Woodrow Wilson to be considered, but Bryan has several times pointed out that he was elected on a single term platform. Bryan wrote that platform.

It may be that Governor Wilson will have some trouble in finding a Secretary of State, and to help him out and just as a suggestion I name John D. Barrett for the place. No one has had much more diplomatic experience than John Barrett. He has been minister to Spain, minister to Argentina, Panama, Columbia and, for many years, minister to the United States. He has been the foreign agent of the St. Louis exposition and has traveled far and wide. Barrett is a Democrat. He was picked from Oregon by Grover Cleveland for the public service. He was not when McKinley became President. Roosevelt called him back because he wanted that kind of a man, and Taft has retained him because he was the kind of a man to fill the place he now holds.

There is one large room in the State Department. It is the diplomatic room, as all the visitors in the building are informed. It is where the Secretary of State receives the ambassadors and ministers of foreign countries, where treaties are signed and foreign business is transacted. A REGAL HEAD

How often do we hear or see this expression used in describing a beautiful woman!

Denude that head of its hair and instead of a queenly, royal bearing we have a fright. The hair makes all the difference. To have that glorious abundance of radiant hair which always crowns "a regal head" one should use Newbro's Herpicide.

Herpicide represents the last word in scientific hair culture. It destroys the dandruff germ, checks falling hair and corrects generally, diseases of the hair and scalp.

The positive results and its delicate but refreshing odor recommends Newbro's Herpicide to ladies of refinement everywhere.

Send 10c in postage for sample bottle of Herpicide and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R, Detroit, Mich.

One dollar size bottle sold and guaranteed by all druggists.

Applications made by the best barbers and hair dressers.

the distinguished position of Secretary of State.

Once this room was magnificently furnished. But the furniture is old and worn, hacked and marred. The upholstery is frayed and ragged. The furniture has been there 40 years, but there are repair shops in this country. It would seem that simple respect for our foreign friends should keep such a room properly furnished.

"What is the program for this winter?" Champ Clark was asked. "Are you going to do anything?"

"Yes, lots of things," responded the Speaker. "I haven't you read Bob Henry's interview?"

And Champ didn't even smile when he referred to the interview of Henry of Texas, who had said what ought to be done. You couldn't help remembering that Henry has had spectacular aspirations, both two years ago and for a few days this year.

ROBERT KNIGHT DEAD.

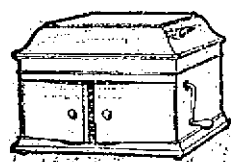

A Leading Cotton Manufacturer Expires in Providence.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 25.—Robert Knight, a leading cotton manufacturer, died at his home here today in his eighty-seventh year. He had been gradually failing for several days. He was a Rhode Islander by birth and descent. The manufacturer was at the offices of H. B. & R. Knight here November 14. A severe cold developed from a wetting he received in a heavy rain and he had been ill since.

Mr. Knight was a native of Warwick. When he was eight years old he went to work in a cotton mill and was connected with the industry either as operative, manager or owner until his death. With his brother, Benjamin Knight, he took control of many of the mills operated by A. B. Sprague, which failed for $25,000,000 in 1873.

Since his brother's death, 16 years ago, Robert Knight came into control of 22 spinning, weaving and finishing establishments. The Knight mills are located in Providence, Woonsocket, Westerly, Centerville, Attle, Natick, Lippitt, Pontiac, Riverport, Clyde and Jackson, R. I.; Hebronville, Dodgeville, Readville and Mancham, Massachusetts and elsewhere. The mills have more than 500,000 spindles, 12,000 looms and 6,500 operatives.

NAVAL STATION INSPECTED. Rear Admiral Stanford Views the Work in Progress to Make Annual Estimates.

Rear Admiral H. R. Stanford, chief of the bureau of yards and docks, visited the Naval Station Monday for the purpose of making his estimates for the annual appropriation bill. He is making an inspection of all the yards and stations along the coast, having started at Cranston's Bay, Maine, and going thence to Portsmouth and Boston before coming home. He left on the Monday night for New York. While here he went over all the new work that is in progress and expressed himself as well pleased with the manner in which the work is being done. He dined with Captain Caperton, commandant of the Naval Station, and with Civil Engineer Lyle F. Bellinger, the public works officer of the station.

TREATY OF PEACE PRESENTED. Premier Cheered When Referring to Italian Successes in War.

ROME, Nov. 26.—Premier Giovanni Giolitti, at the re-opening of the Italian Chamber of Deputies today, presented the treaty of peace which had been signed between Italy and Turkey and was greeted with great cheering when he referred to Italian successes in the war in Tripoli and to the happy conclusion of peace.

The peace treaty, according to the Italian constitution, must be discussed and approved by Parliament, as it involves financial responsibilities. The examination of the documents has been entrusted to a committee of the Chamber appointed by the speaker. All the deputies were present and the public galleries of the Chamber were crowded.

POSITIONS BEING ESTABLISHED. Bulgarians and Turks to Hold Them Until Results of Negotiations.

SOFIA, Nov. 26.—The peace plenipotentiaries of the Balkan allies and Turkey yesterday appointed commissioners to establish formally the existing positions of the Bulgarian and Turkish forces. The opposing troops are to be confined to these positions pending the results of the negotiations. The lines of demarcation are to be drawn today, and negotiations resumed tomorrow.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 26.—Disturbances are reported to have broken out at the Turkish seaport of Dede Agatch on the Aegean sea. French cruiser Jurien De La Graviere has left here with orders to proceed to the scene.

TECHNICAL WILL NOT PLAY. Football Championship Left Unsettled, and Rogers Preparing for Alumni Game.

Greet was the disappointment at the Rogers High School this morning when the news went round that Technical had declined to play off the tie to decide the inter-scholastic football championship of the state. Head Master Thompson received a telephone message from the headmaster of Technical, who said that because some of the players have injuries and on account of the abandonment of the team after the Rogers game, it was thought best not to play a second time.

The disappointment was intensified because the cancellation leaves the championship title unsettled. Rogers is logically the champion, as it could be plainly seen that the Newport Technicals played the Providence lads. Technically, as Mr. Thompson told the football squad at a meeting this afternoon, the title cannot be claimed, as Rogers had not won. The boys have worked hard during the season, and it is a sore point not to have won when they feel that they had a better team than Technical. However, as the score was a tie, Technical now has as much right to call themselves champions as Rogers.

The Rogers team will now devote all its energies to the game with the Alumni, Thanksgiving morning. This attracted the most spectators. This year it was decided to play even if another game has been scheduled. The Rogers team would have gone into the fight against the Alumni, to save the first string men, but now the regular line-up will be seen. In years gone by the Alumni team, while not always keeping to Alumni men in its line-up, has put up one of the hardest games against Rogers, and this year's will be no exception. Expectations come true. The team is being organized by Burnham, a prominent Rogers athlete of several years ago and one of the members of the champion 1903 football team. He is bringing together a fast aggregation and the team is having practice, so that it can put up a tough game against the school boys.

In former years, the game has started at 10:30, but this year it will be called at 10 sharp, so that the players, old and young, can leave sooner.

station has been promised a gasoline engine to run the windlass for hauling life boat Ida Lewis into quarters, and also a machine shop for the care of the boat. These may not come this winter and the crew in the intervening time will be obliged to tug and haul to take the boat home out of the ways. The boat, having returned from Bayonne, N. Y., where she has been undergoing thorough repairs and renovating, has been hauled up on the ways, which run into the house built for her last summer. There will be no more necessity for huffing her through the cave, to be huffed by storms and coated with ice while waiting a call to duty. It was a big task to haul her over the launch in the summer matter, while being hauled in a simple matter after daily and kept in readiness for use. It is said that there were days last winter when she could not be reached at her moorings.

A power surf boat is also promised the station. It will be a light, speedy regular surf boat, which can be carried about and launched anywhere where launching the boat is feasible. Such a boat will save rowing, but being lighter will not have the self-bailing and righting and long sea-going qualities of the full-fledged lifeboat, which the Ida Lewis is rated as being.

TWO FUNERALS. Services Held for Michael Angelo Amoroso and for Mrs. Julia E. Rives.

The funeral of Michael Angelo Amoroso took place this morning from the late home at 1100 Washington street to St. Augustine's church, where a solemn high mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul. The pastor, Rev. M. F. Reddy, officiated. Father Meenan of St. Mary's was deacon and Father Clerney, also of St. Mary's, sub-deacon, and Master R. O'Hanley, master of ceremonies. There was a large attendance of friends and relatives. The interment was by carriage to St. Columba cemetery. The bearers were Andrew Biello, John Capucelli, Pietro Capucelli, Carlo Del Nero, Ernesto Diandra and Joseph Hall, the latter representing Caperton's and Joiners' Union No. 1245. There were many handsome floral tributes.

The funeral services for Mrs. Julia E. Rives was held this afternoon from the residence of the Misses Leavitt in Madison road. Rev. Joseph Cooper, who officiated, spoke of her Christian character and great spirit of helpfulness, to those around her and in the church, concluding by reading one of the poems of St. Bernard of Clairvaux. The closing prayer was by Rev. G. A. Hubber. The body will be taken to Concord Wednesday for burial.

NOTES OF THE FLEET. The First, Third and Fourth divisions of the Atlantic fleet have completed their visit to Charleston, S. C., where they have been making a naval display and are bound for Hampton Roads. They will hold drills off the Virginia capes before going to their respective home yards for the holiday liberty parties.

The War and North Dakota will not stop at Hampton Roads, but are bound for the New York harbor in their trip up the coast.

The Cumberland, in tow, has left the New York yard for Guantanamo, her future status still undecided.

The Tennessee has left Gibraltar for Malta and the Montana has sailed from Gibraltar for Port Said, to coal.

Noon—Stringent monetary conditions eventually overcame the early improvement. Prices opened a good fraction higher in sympathy with the higher value abroad, but these gains and more, too, were lost when the money rate began to climb. Yesterday's high figure of 12 per cent was equalled before noon. The drain on the banks from sub-treasury operations so far this week has reached nearly $6,000,000, approximately the amount of the surplus reserve shown in last Saturday's bank statement. Bonds were heavy, with considerable selling of some convertible issues. Money on call strong at 9 per cent. Prime mercantile paper 6 per cent. Exchange $104,236,498; balances $17,938,450.
